Integration Endpoints

In terms of internal communication between backend and our database we use:
- H2 for Development environment
- PostgreSQL for Production environment

Both are defined in the properties of Sprint Boot.

When we speak of communication between frontend and backend, we're using api routes for common operations such as CRUD as well as exposing endpoints for web socket communication for peer to peer connection.